Assistant Commissioner for Regional Operations Stanley W. Suchman noted that higher costs for shelter (4.9 percent) had the largest upward impact on the overall index. Chart 1. Over-the-year percent change in CPI-U, Denver, second half 2014–second half 2017

Source: U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Food

Food prices rose 3.4 percent from the second half of 2016 to the second half of 2017 after registering little change (0.2 percent) in the same period one year ago. Prices for food at home were up 2.2 percent while costs for food away from home advanced 5.0 percent over the year. Comparatively, from the second half of 2015 to the second half of 2016, prices for food at home were virtually unchanged (-0.1 percent) while costs for food away from home increased a moderate 0.6 percent.

Energy

The energy index, which includes motor fuel and household fuels, rose 8.9 percent from the second half of 2016 to the second half of 2017. Energy costs declined 4.6 percent in the same period one year ago. Higher prices for gasoline (13.8 percent) led the increase in the energy component. Prices for electricity and utility (piped) gas service increased 4.1 and 3.1 percent, respectively. During the same period one year ago, gasoline prices fell 9.6 percent, while electricity prices increased 1.8 percent and utility (piped) gas service costs were 1.0 percent higher.

All items less food and energy

The index for all items less food and energy rose 3.4 percent from the second half of 2016 to the second half of 2017. Shelter costs had the greatest upward impact on the index with a gain of 4.9 percent after rising 7.0 percent in the same period one year ago. Other expenditure categories that registered higher prices over the year included medical care (6.8 percent) and recreation (3.8 percent).

The Denver CPI-U stood at 257.230 for the second half of 2017. This means that a market basket of goods and services that cost $100.00 in the 1982-84 base period cost $257.23 in the second half of 2017. Because metropolitan area CPI data are not adjusted for seasonal price variation, consumers and businesses should be cautious in drawing conclusions about long-term retail price trends from short-term changes in the area indexes.

CPI-W

The Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPI-W) for the Denver-Boulder-Greeley, Colo., metropolitan area for the second half of 2017 was 246.186. The CPI-W increased 3.7 percent from the second half of 2016 to the second half of 2017.

The Consumer Price Index for January 2018 is scheduled to be released on February 14, 2018.

Consumer Price Index Geographic Revision for 2018

In January 2018, BLS will introduce a new geographic area sample for the Consumer Price Index (CPI). This index will change to a bimonthly publication schedule beginning in January, 2018. The first indexes using the new structure will be published in February 2018. Additional information on the geographic revision is available at: www.bls.gov/cpi/georevision2018.htm.

Technical Note

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) is a measure of the average change in prices over time in a fixed market basket of goods and services. The Bureau of Labor Statistics publishes CPIs for two population groups: (1) a CPI for All Urban Consumers (CPI-U) which covers approximately 89 percent of the total population and (2) a CPI for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPI-W) which covers 28 percent of the total population. The CPI-U includes, in addition to wage earners and clerical workers, groups such as professional, managerial, and technical workers, the self-employed, short-term workers, the unemployed, and retirees and others not in the labor force.

The CPI is based on prices of food, clothing, shelter, and fuels, transportation fares, charges for doctors' and dentists' services, drugs, and the other goods and services that people buy for day-to-day living. Each month, prices are collected in 87 urban areas across the country from about 6,000 housing units and approximately 24,000 retail establishments--department stores, supermarkets, hospitals, filling stations, and other types of stores and service establishments. All taxes directly associated with the purchase and use of items are included in the index.

The index measures price changes from a designated reference date (1982-84) that equals 100.0. An increase of 16.5 percent, for example, is shown as 116.5. This change can also be expressed in dollars as follows: the price of a base period "market basket" of goods and services in the CPI has risen from $10 in 1982-84 to $11.65. For further details see the CPI home page on the Internet at www.bls.gov/cpi and the BLS Handbook of Methods, Chapter 17, The Consumer Price Index, available on the Internet at www.bls.gov/opub/hom/homch17_a.htm.

In calculating the index, price changes for the various items in each location are averaged together with weights that represent their importance in the spending of the appropriate population group. Local data are then combined to obtain a U.S. city average. Because the sample size of a local area is smaller, the local area index is subject to substantially more sampling and other measurement error than the national index. In addition, local indexes are not adjusted for seasonal influences. As a result, local area indexes show greater volatility than the national index, although their long-term trends are quite similar. NOTE: Area indexes do not measure differences in the level of prices between areas; they only measure the average change in prices for each area since the base period.

The Denver-Boulder-Greeley, Colo., Metropolitan Statistical Area includes Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Broomfield, Denver, Douglas, Jefferson, and Weld Counties in Colorado.

Subject: Dixon v. Wilkie 08-1475

Ronen,

As stated during the hearing in this matter on February 1, 2018 and again during our conference with Ms. Dowd from the Court's Central Legal Staff on August 6, 2018, Appellant remains willing to discuss settlement of this matter. I understood from your comments in open court on February 1, 2018, that the Secretary also was willing to discuss settlement should the Court determine that Ms. Dixon was entitled to recover fees, costs and expenses. Please contact me by phone (at either of the numbers shown below) or by return email if the Secretary has any interest in settling.
